TEMNEIN: Tales: Of Humanity And Greed Full-Length From French Melodic Death Metal Goliaths Out Now And Streaming

Produced by "El Mobo" (Loudblast, ETHS, The Great Old Ones, Eryn Non Dae) at Concrete Studio in Bordeaux, France, Tales: Of Humanity And Greed is a captivating ten-track journey thematically based on various stories, myths, and legends exploring classic childhood occidental fairy tales, unsung fables from Asia and Inuit lands, pop culture universes (Legend Of Zelda, Majora's Mask, Doctor Who etc.), and much more. Each story is linked to a common theme: the repetition of human error. Musically, TEMNEIN here employs shorter song structures than previous offerings adding more dynamics to their melo-death foundation. More doom/death and post-metal influences have crept into the band's sound consequently enhancing the overall atmosphere. The record comes swathed in the stunning artwork of Vincent Fouquet (Meshuggah, Kataklysm, Moonsorrow, Kampfar, Nordjevel).

"I was inspired to make a full length album for the art and challenge of it. I know it's not necessarily the smartest way to release music in a singles market, but one of the best parts of being an independent artist is that I can do whatever I like. There are so many different styles and vibes represented on these 11 songs, but they all represent everything that Liquid Giraffe means is to me." -Kraig Tyler (Liquid Giraffe)

Video: DIE-REK “Praises of Men”

Privacy - Terms

On his third single from The Dying Ones, Die-Rek carefully analyses the supposed importance of the “praises of men”, the value it adds to our lives or the lack thereof. Even though the primate-like thump of the self-produced beat will make you do the Klingon Face™ immediately, the lyrical content is still intensely personal. Die-Rek’s unique perspective on props from peers will require repeated listens for effective digestion. It’s safe to assume that Die-Rek humbly accepts any renowned kudos, but he also knows that his legacy is greater than Earthly trinkets and his real treasures are stored in Heaven.

Tale Of Two's new single 'Demons'

About the song: This song is about how we strive through life believing the lies fed to us by the powers that be and how we rage against the tide that tries to hold us in our place. The song is about anger. Anger with the world and its lies and greed. What do you do when the captain jumps ship long before all the rats? Come on a journey with us through the murky wine dark waves for a taste of melancholy and despair.

Cinzia & The Eclipse – Listen to ‘Don’t Call Me Up’ & remind yourself how badass you are

““Don’t Call Me Up” came to be after an ex messaged me with an old memory of us. We both knew whatever we had was done. He moved on, but I’d be lying if I said I did at that time.

In my annoyance over the lack of control I had over the situation, I wrote the song’s first line: Don’t call me up if you’re not in love with me anymore.”

NY-Based Indie Pop Singer Songwriter MICHAEL BUONO–New Single “TV”

Says Buono: “The song was written before COVID, in a time where bad first dates were just a weekly thing. I was inspired by the feeling of wanting to spend more time with friends, going out and enjoying the people who matter most to you. But now, listening to this song in today’s madness, it makes me miss both of those things. Because now, neither bad dates nor going out with friends are an option in the social distance era. But at the same time, the upbeat and fun nature of the song makes me hopeful and excited for when this is all over, because I cannot wait to party with my buddies and go back to enjoying life.”
